

Don't Be Confused...

Many people use a professional to help them with their retirement plans. Some use a broker or an advisor, while others use a banker, CPA or insurance agent.

Don't be confused! Most of these professionals don't create plans—they just sell products. If your professional discusses policies or investments before they discuss your needs, dreams and desires, you're not experiencing financial planning, you're just being sold something.

Use the table below to see if you're really getting the whole package of planning, or just bits and pieces....
